

REVIEW

Overcoming Tough Times With Our Superpowers

A closing keynote is something that typically goes in one “year”
and out the other.

LEE SILBER

HUH?

A quick review.

YOU ARE A SUPERHERO

And Can Take On The Toughest Challenges

SUPERPOWERS

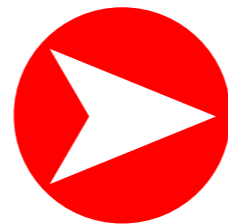

2011 TEXAS CAREER EDUCATION CONFERENCE

Pick battles big enough to matter,
small enough to win.

JONATHAN KOZO

3 THINGS

- Passion = Strength
- Problem Solving = Power
- Planning = Vision

I do what I do because I have to.
People need us. We've been given the power to do something—it's our gift—the reason we are here.

S U P E R M A N T O W O N D E R W O M A N

TCEC CLOSING KEYNOTE

THE TRIPLE THREAT

Overcoming Tough Times Using Superpowers
You Already Possess

PART 1 PASSION

PART 2 PROBLEM SOLVING

PART 3 PLANNING

SUPERPOWERS

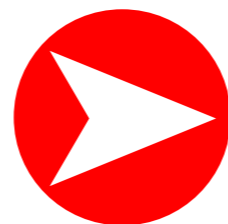

There is no doubt everyone involved in Career and Technical Education is facing tough times due to budget cuts. Today we will explore practical solutions in search of the perfect antidote to our three biggest problems—not enough money, not enough time, and not enough appreciation. We can face down these challenges with the superpowers we already possess by reigniting our Passion, improving our Problem-Solving skills, and using technology as a tool for Planning to focus on what matters most. There are the way things are and the way we want them to be. This program is about how to bridge the gap between the two. They say bad things happen in threes—good things do, too.

lee  silber.com

Lee Silber is the best-selling author of 15 books.

LAST WORDS

What You Do Makes A Difference

Never has someone done so much . . . with so little.

WHAT A FORMER TEACHER TOLD ME

TOAST

For All You Do

THANK YOU

Career And Technology Association Of Texas

SUPERPOWERS

2011 TEXAS CAREER EDUCATION CONFERENCE

